BP Anne Frank

The book Who Was Anne Frank? is a non-fiction story written by Ann Abramson. Ann Abramson wrote about a girl named Anne Frank. Anne lived when the Nazis took over Germany. The Nazis were an army run by Adolf Hitler. No one knows why, but Adolf Hitler hated Jews. Jews are people who follow Jewish beliefs. If you want to know more about Anne, read on! If not, you might want to leave off here:)

Living with Nazis was terrible for Anne. The Nazis took away the Jews' freedoms one by one. Anne would write about these horrors in her diary, which she called "Kitty". One day the Nazis beat up 400 men. Anne's parents hoped that things would get better. But instead, they got worse. All Jews had to wear a star on their coat right on their heart. Hitler meant it to shame the Jews. Instead, they wore it proudly. I think the Jews are a brave group of people.

Now the Frank family got captured. They went to a concentration camp. Anne, her sister Margot, and her mother died at the camp. Anne's dad Otto made it out alive. On the radio before they got captured, Anne heard that after World War II diaries and letters would be published. Anne's dream was to become an author. Otto helped that dream come true. He published her diary for her. At first it was going to be called The Secret Annex but is now called Anne Frank: Diary of a Young Girl.
